

ACRES U.S.A. PRESENTS

The Salatin Family's Polyface Farm

Intensive Discovery Seminars

Three sessions to choose from:

July 16-17, 2012,
July 23-24, 2012

or July 27-28, 2012

Swoope, Virginia

"The cost scared me at first, but now I wish I'd brought my spouse and in-laws."

"This has been like a religious experience."

"This weekend changed our lives."

These comments typify the feedback we receive from folks who have attended previous Polyface Intensive Discovery Seminars. Offering hands-on, behind-the-scenes how-to, as well as plenty of discussion, these seminars are limited to 30 people to guarantee intimacy and interaction.

Accentuating the two days are six on-farm meals provided from the Polyface larder featuring pastured eggs, pigatorator sausage, salad bar beef, and barbecued pastured chicken, all garnished with fresh garden vegetables and fruit.

World-renowned for agricultural models that offer profit, productivity, and pleasure, Joel Salatin, the rest of the family, and apprentices immerse themselves in the people and problems attending this unique learning experience. No subject is taboo – even politics.

For more information on the enterprises you'll observe during the seminar, see the back of this flyer.

Visit the Salatins & learn firsthand about enterprises such as . . .

- PASTURED BROILERS – Moveable range shelters protect chicks from predators and weather, while giving fresh daily forage and lounge areas. The farm's centerpiece enterprise. Net $1,500 per acre in 6 months. Pastured turkeys in feathernets, too.
- PASTURED LAYERS (Feathernets & Eggmobiles) – Two models; two objectives. Portable hoop schooners attached to automatic watering and bulk feeders surrounded by electrified netting reduces chores and increases control. One person working 7 hours per week on 5 acres nets $10,000 per year. Eggmobiles follow cattle to sanitize paddocks and convert insects to cash.
- SALAD BAR BEEF – Mimicking natural grazing principles of herbivore herds, forage-fattened cattle create healthy land and healthy people. Fencing, corrals, and grazing management double or triple production per acre without large input costs.
- PIGAERATOR PORK – Compost-turning and forest-to-savannah conversion, the ultimate workaholic. Net $3,000 per acre and get rid of the heavy metal machinery.
- FORAGE-BASED RABBITS – Drug-free and linebred, Daniel Salatin's meat rabbits incorporate stacking and symbiosis in the "Raken" house, and lots of grass.
- PORTABLE BANDSAW MILL – Enjoy utility logs turned into first rate lumber for sale or on-farm building projects. A small farm profit center at $400 per day.
- PONDS & IRRIGATION – Silt for fertilizer. Flood prevention. Harnessing more solar energy to synergize the biomass decomposition cycle. Hyper grass growth. Drought-proofing pastures. It's the next big thing.
- ON-FARM PROCESSING – Poultry and rabbits can be processed on-farm. See how the Salatins perform this task efficiently and cleanly.
- RELATIONSHIP MARKETING – On-farm customers, weekly restaurant deliveries, metropolitan buying clubs, agent-designated farmers' markets and special wholesaling. Utilizing agents, subcontractors, and other connections, Polyface Farm moves nearly $300,000 worth of products from 100 acres per year.
- LEASING FARMS & ADDING SUBCONTRACTORS – Scaling up production in an anti-Wall Street business model utilizes nearby farms and former apprentices in a grand land healing performance. You will visit one of these operations.

Cost: $600 per person, includes both days & six meals.

Food: Enjoy the best Polyface Farm has to offer. The proof is in the eating.

Class Size: These three seminars are limited to 30 people each. First come, first served.
